SPIN-JAN. '92 MAGAZINE

S.O.S. New Jersey's WFMU (91.1 FM) has become legendary as home of some of the most creative radio in history. Completely supported by its listeners, WFMU is known as an oasis in the airwave desert. While most stations practice one-dimensional "narrow-casting" ("classic rock," "all news," "power hits," etc.), WFMU embraces everything in the wonderful world of sound. A block of rare Sonic Youth might be followed by Groucho Marx, Polish rockabilly, an unsigned rapper, or an in-studio by a gospel choir. On-air discussions cover topics ranging from Hegelian philosophy to the mystical significance of sneakers hanging from telephone wires.

WFMU's existence is now in jeopardy as the result of the discovery of a technical error in the 31-year-old station's license. Because of this mistake, the coverage area of WFMU slightly overlaps that of four other public radio stations. These stations are urging the FCC to trim WFMU's power by more than half, cutting the signal off from thousands of supporters in Manhattan, Brooklyn, and New Jersey. WFMU, a meager 1440 watts, wants only to maintain its longtime audience, while three of its four opponents (with signals ranging from 10,000 to 50,000 watts) are attempting to significantly increase their coverage areas.

In this time of peril, the fans of WFMU are doing their best to keep their station alive. Listener donations have nearly doubled, but legal costs are bleeding the station dry. Notables such as poet Allen Ginsberg and filmmaker Jim Jarmusch have pledged support, and artists like Sonic Youth, They Might Be Giants, Marshall Crenshaw, and Bongwater have performed benefits. A charity art auction is planned for the spring, including works as daring, fun, and esoteric as the station itself. To find out more, or to make a donation, write WFMU, Upsala College, East Orange, NJ, 07019.
