Dear friends, artists, and the rest:

Much news to report from the shores of the sunny WFMU...

in response to many of your queries, NO, we haven't moved yet. That will be a long process, and we still are looking (or confirming) for a place to settle. We can hang on here a while longer, and no doubt will as long as we can.

There is a new issue of our Program Guide, LCD, out on the stands, if you didn't receive your copy (we did a mailing already, but...), please call our Main Office at 201-678-8264.

The 2-year Robin-era of the history of WFMU is now over...I'll be leaving my position of Music Director here soon--my last day is August 30th. I want to thank deeply all of you who have contributed, listened, been friendly; those who have tried to understand the idiosyncrasies of WFMU, haven't harrassed me for adds, and have shown up here to play live on the air on time.

Please keep in touch-- I will be around (and NO, I'm not graduating, I've been out of school for years) in Jersey City, at 201-433-4041. I'm still accessible at robin@wfmnu.org, and my address is: Robin Edgerton

200 Warren St., #1
Jersey City, NJ 07302

I'm moving on to work as a part-time label co-manager at Asphodel Records, to continue doing an increased amount of freelance writing (including the weekly Further Out column in the CMJ New Music Report), and will be pursuing other independent projects. If you have anything I might be interested in, please send it along...

I also want to say a fond farewell to Assistant Music Director Nicholas Marantz, who has been digging in the trenches here since he was 13 (!) and left WFMU approximately 1 month ago. You can now find him in the New Music Department at WKCR, Columbia University.

My successor will be Interim Music Director and all-around nice guy Brian Turner, he the editor of Teen Looch and now ex-buyer at the Mondo Kim's store in NYC. Be good to him, okay? And do me a favor and don't ask him for adds.

Robin Edgerton
